Agrify-Valiant LLC to Address Cannabis Industry's Biggest Concerns

December 9, 2019

Agrify, a developer of premium indoor grow solutions, announced today they have entered into joint venture with Valiant-America, a leading cannabis consultant and innovative general contracting firm.

The 60/40 joint venture called Agrify-Valiant LLC includes an option to acquire the remaining 40 percent of Valiant ownership within the next two to five years and is designed to provide a complete turnkey solution from design, engineering and construction, to integrated, controlled grow solutions, world-class total farm management software and equipment financing.

"There's always been a disconnect between equipment and construction in the cannabis and indoor crop industries and this joint venture will solve that," said Agrify CEO Raymond Chang. "Agrify-Valiant LLC will now provide a one-stop shop for those looking for a comprehensive solution."

Agrify-Valiant LLC recognized the major pain points of starting and maintaining an indoor crop facility, which will all but eliminate project delays, complicated fit-outs and dealing with multiple vendors, contractors and equipment providers. They also provide integrated hardware and software solutions and financing for start-ups and established companies.

"Agrify exemplifies our core principles as a leader in the cannabis and indoor crop industries," said Eamonn O'Kane, Valiant-America CEO. "The quality of their products combined with our build and engineering expertise make for an easy and complete build-out experience no one else can offer."
